Once the reservation deadline has passed, a wait list will be started. When cancellations occur the next on the list will be called. If you have questions please call the office, they will assist you the best they can or get an answer and call you back. Thanks in advance!

COMMUNITY CENTER RENTALS

THREE SIMPLE SWAPS FOR A HEALTHIER LUNCH

Choosing a healthy lunch doesn't have to be boring or a day-to-day challenge. In fact, there are plenty of tasty and healthier substitutions you can make to your favorite meals when eating out or packing a lunch, such as adding more fresh fruits and vegetables and reducing refined grain products such as white bread and sugary foods. And losing just a few pounds can help reduce your risk for type 2 diabetes, according to the American Diabetes Association. The American Diabetes Association is committed to raising awareness and celebrating healthy choices. When it comes to any meal, if you are living with type 1 or type 2 diabetes, making the healthy choice is probably at the forefront of your mind, but it's not always the easy choice. Remember that healthy choices for people with diabetes are the same as for everyone else: choose more vegetables, especially leafy greens, lean protein sources and whole grains in place of processed refined grains whenever you can," says Sacha Uelmen, RDN, CDE, Director, Nutrition at the American Diabetes Association.

Making better choices at lunch is a great place to start. And even small changes can help. So check out these healthy swaps below:

* Caesar Salad. The traditional salad contains romaine lettuce, croutons, parmesan cheese and Caesar dressing. Make a healthier salad by asking for the dressing on the side and use it sparingly. Add more veggies to your salad to increase vitamins and minerals, including dark, leafy greens, such as kale or spinach, carrots, bell peppers, tomatoes, or onions instead of croutons. Go light on the cheese or skip it altogether. Some restaurants now offer kale Caesar salad.

* Pizza. Two slices of pizza with extra cheese sounds delicious, but it can be high in saturated fat and calories. A better option is to have one slice of regular cheese pizza with veggie toppings and a side salad or two small slices of thin crust pizza with a side salad. And what about soda? Try sparkling water or still water with lemon instead.

* Italian sub. Choosing a sandwich with fries and a soda or sweet tea might satisfy a craving, but it's also a lunch that is packed with calories. Try a grilled chicken breast or turkey sandwich on whole wheat bread or wrap and add plenty of veggies. Replace regular mayo with avocado, hummus, or light mayonnaise and ask for half the cheese. Add fresh fruit or a small salad in place of the fries. And swap out the soda or sweet tea for water, sparkling water, or unsweetened tea with a splash of lime.

ARE YOU A TIMLEY PERFORMANCE DRIVER?

As millions of Americans know, daily commutes can be stressful and monotonous. Couple that with winter weather, and staying alert is paramount--especially as road conditions start to deteriorate. To that point, you never know when you're going to need to become a Timley Performance Driver. Timely Performance is a term that describes being present in the moment when driving so you can maximize your car's performance and react quickly to surprising situations on the road. Based on a recent survey, 75 percent of U.S. adults say they need to become Timely Performance Drivers at least once a week, and those who reported a need to react quickly to a driving situation say they do so approximately 6 times per week.

A survey of driving behaviors was recently conducted. The study group included 1,009 adults (aged 18 years and older) living in the continental United States. The sample was representative of the general population in terms of geographic, demographic, and socioeconomic traits.

Overall, 82 percent of the survey respondents say that drivers often face unexpected situations on the road, and 54 percent agree that drivers drive better in potentially dangerous situations.

Andrew Comrie-Picard, a professional race car driver and X-Games athlete, emphasizes that drivers of any age can (and should) practice Timely Performance Driving by staying alert so they can push their car to its maximum performance in the moments that matter most.

According to Comrie-Picard, key aspects of Timely Performance Driving include:

- *Looking far down the road to anticipate potential issues and road hazards.
- *Remembering the importance of smooth control inputs, such as braking, throttling, and steering.
- *Anticipating road conditions, such as standing water and slick roads.
- *Driving with two hands on the wheel--no exceptions.
- *Keeping distance between you and the car in front of you.

Stay safe and stay alert.!

HONEYBEE CART PATHS

The Honeybee Golf Course winds its way through many areas of Glenwood. There appears to be some confusion as to the permissions granted to Glenwood residents in regard to access to the grounds of the golf course. Residents are allowed to walk on the cart paths only when the course is closed. Closing is evidenced by the removal of the flags from the holes. THE CART PATHS ARE THE ONLY PART OF THE GOLF COURSE THAT CAN BE ACCESSED AFTER HOURS. Being on any other part of the golf course is considered trespassing, and you will be subject to any an all action that the golf course chooses to take.

PLEASE—do not allow your dogs to run loose and/or defecate on the golf course. This is a violation of city code, and you can be issued a summons. All pet waste must be removed, regardless of where it is dropped.

On the flip side—golfers are not allowed to retrieve their golf balls from your yard. If a golfer trespasses on your property, you have the right to take action against him or her.

ROOF CLEANING

Before and after

There are many roofs in the neighborhood in need of being cleaned. This is a maintenance item for your house, just as is cleaning the siding. The streaks that you see on your roofs are not just unsightly, it can potentially shorten the life of your shingle.

An algae known as Gloeocapsa Magma is the most likely culprit and this algae affects nearly 80 percent of the homes across the United States. Gloeocapsa Magma is a species of algae that causes black streaking and discoloration on asphalt/fiberglass shingles. The black staining you see on many roofs is caused by the life cycle of algae and fungus spores that land on houses via wind or wildlife. While this algae can grow just about anywhere, it prefers humid environments. A preferred food source of this algae is limestone which is used as "filler material" by most shingle manufactures. Higher quality shingles are manufactured with preventative measures such as copper or zinc containing granules. Several methods exist to prevent and clean infected areas. Installing zinc or copper strips near the roof ridge can prevent further algae growth. Application of bleach (non-chlorine) can aid in removing the stains, as well as many available commercial cleaning products. Some products may harm vegetation beneath roof eaves or near downspout extensions. While many remedies can be performed by the home owner, we recommend the use of qualified professionals due to the extreme danger and risk of injury or death associated to roof repairs and cleaning.

From What causes roof stains - InterNACHI Inspection Forum http://www.nachi.org/forum/f77/causes-roof-stains-16687/#ixzz2gy2hMuDZ

There is debate over the actual harmfulness of this particular bacteria to roofs, as there is little supportive scientific research. However, most "experts" within the subject area conclude the bacteria to be harmful, if left untreated, as the growth holds moisture within shingles causing premature aging, rotting, and/or granule loss.

POLICE YOUR PETS

PLEASE—Clean up after your pets. It is extremely rude and also a violation of the law to allow your pets to drop their waste on common area or other resident's property without cleaning up after them. Please remember that this applies to cats as well as dogs. Cat waste can also cause a parasitic disease called Toxoplasmosis. Toxoplasmosis results from infection with a common parasite found in cat feces and contaminated food. It can cause serious complications for pregnant women and people with weakened immune systems.
